

Curriculum Vitae // Timo Rittweg

Contact

Leibniz-Institut für Gewässerökologie und Binnenfischerei (IGB) im Forschungsverbund Berlin e. V.
Abt. 4 Biologie und Ökologie der Fische
Müggelseedamm 310
12587 Berlin
rittweg@igb-berlin.de

Professional Experience

Since Mar 2020:	PHD student associated with project Boddenhecht, investigating biotic and abiotic factors for pike growth in brackish Baltic lagoons
Sep 2019 – Mar 2020:	Researcher for marine biology at Senckenberg am Meer, guest scientist at Royal Netherlands Institute for Sea Research (NIOZ) Texel
Nov 2016 – Oct 2018:	Research assistant at section geology at Institute for Baltic research Warnemünde
Mar 2015 – Jul 2016:	Research assistant at University of Tübingen, including behavioral observation of alpine newts, supervising basic vertebrate identification course and basic zoology course, aquaria maintenance, image manipulation of multi-plane Micro CT images of diverse arthropods
Dec 2012 – May 2013:	Assistant Journalist in Colombia & Venezuela (translator)
Aug 2011 – Sep 2012:	Voluntary work for the Fundación Omacha of Colombia on the river Amazon (Observation and Preservation of river dolphins and fisheries monitoring)

Education

2016 – 2019:	Master of science in marine biology with the University of Rostock
2013 – 2016:	Bachelor of science in biology with the Eberhardt-Karls University of Tübingen

Languages

German, English:	Native speaker
Spanish:	Very good command
French:	Working knowledge

References available on request